

	Key knowledge to be transferred to long term memory	Building on previous knowledge and skills, you will remember:		Key knowledge to be transferred to long term memory	Building on previous knowledge and skills, you will remember:
	The Gunpowder Plot was a plot to burn down the Houses of Parliament and kill King James I in 1605.	In Reception and Year 1, you learnt that the Houses of Parliament is where the government work and make decisions for the United Kingdom.	The Great Fire of London		There weren't firefighters in 1666 so people used leather buckets with water to try to put out the fire. People tried to escape the fire by going in boats along the River Thames.	In Reception, you learnt that firefighters use hosepipes today.
	Guy Fawkes and other Catholics created the Gunpowder Plot.	In Year 1, you learnt that Catholics are a part of Christianity.			Houses burnt down quickly in the fire as they were built so closely together and were made from wood. The King ordered his guards to use fire hooks to pull down houses to create a fire break in the fire.	In Reception, you learnt that firefighters use water to put out fires.
	The Gunpowder Plot was to try to kill King James I because he didn't make life any better for the Catholics.	In Reception, you visited a castle and learnt that kings can live in castles.			St Paul's Cathedral was burnt down by the fire on the fourth day.	In Year 1, you learnt that a Cathedral is a Christian holy building.
	Today, Bonfire Night celebrates the failure of The Gunpowder Plot.	In Reception and Year 1, you learnt that fireworks are used on Bonfire Night.			Samuel Pepys wrote a diary on each day of the fire to keep a record of the events.	In Year 1, you learnt that Ernest Shackleton wrote a diary to keep a record of his exploration.
	The Great Fire of London was a huge fire in London that started on Pudding Lane in a bakery in 1666.	In Year 1, you learnt that London is the capital city of England.			Some people believe The Great Fire of London made London better as houses were rebuilt further apart and made of brick. There were also improvements in the drainage system. Some people believe The Great Fire of London made London worse because homes were destroyed, and people were killed.	In Year 1, you learnt that brick is a suitable material for buildings because it is strong and rigid and doesn't catch fire easily.

Key Vocabulary
treason	Doing something that harms your country.
villain	A bad person who harms other people or breaks the law.
diary	A personal record or book which is written by one person.
baker	A person who makes bread, cakes and pastries.
fire hooks	Giant hooks to bring down buildings
fire break	A break between buildings so the fire can't spread to the next building

The Big Event

